Our care and attention

♥ OUR KNOWLEDGE

We know Portugal... we are Portugal! We were born here...
Our destination, our home, in fact, our lives!
It is this knowledge made of Saudade, experience, and life that we share every day in our job as DMC.

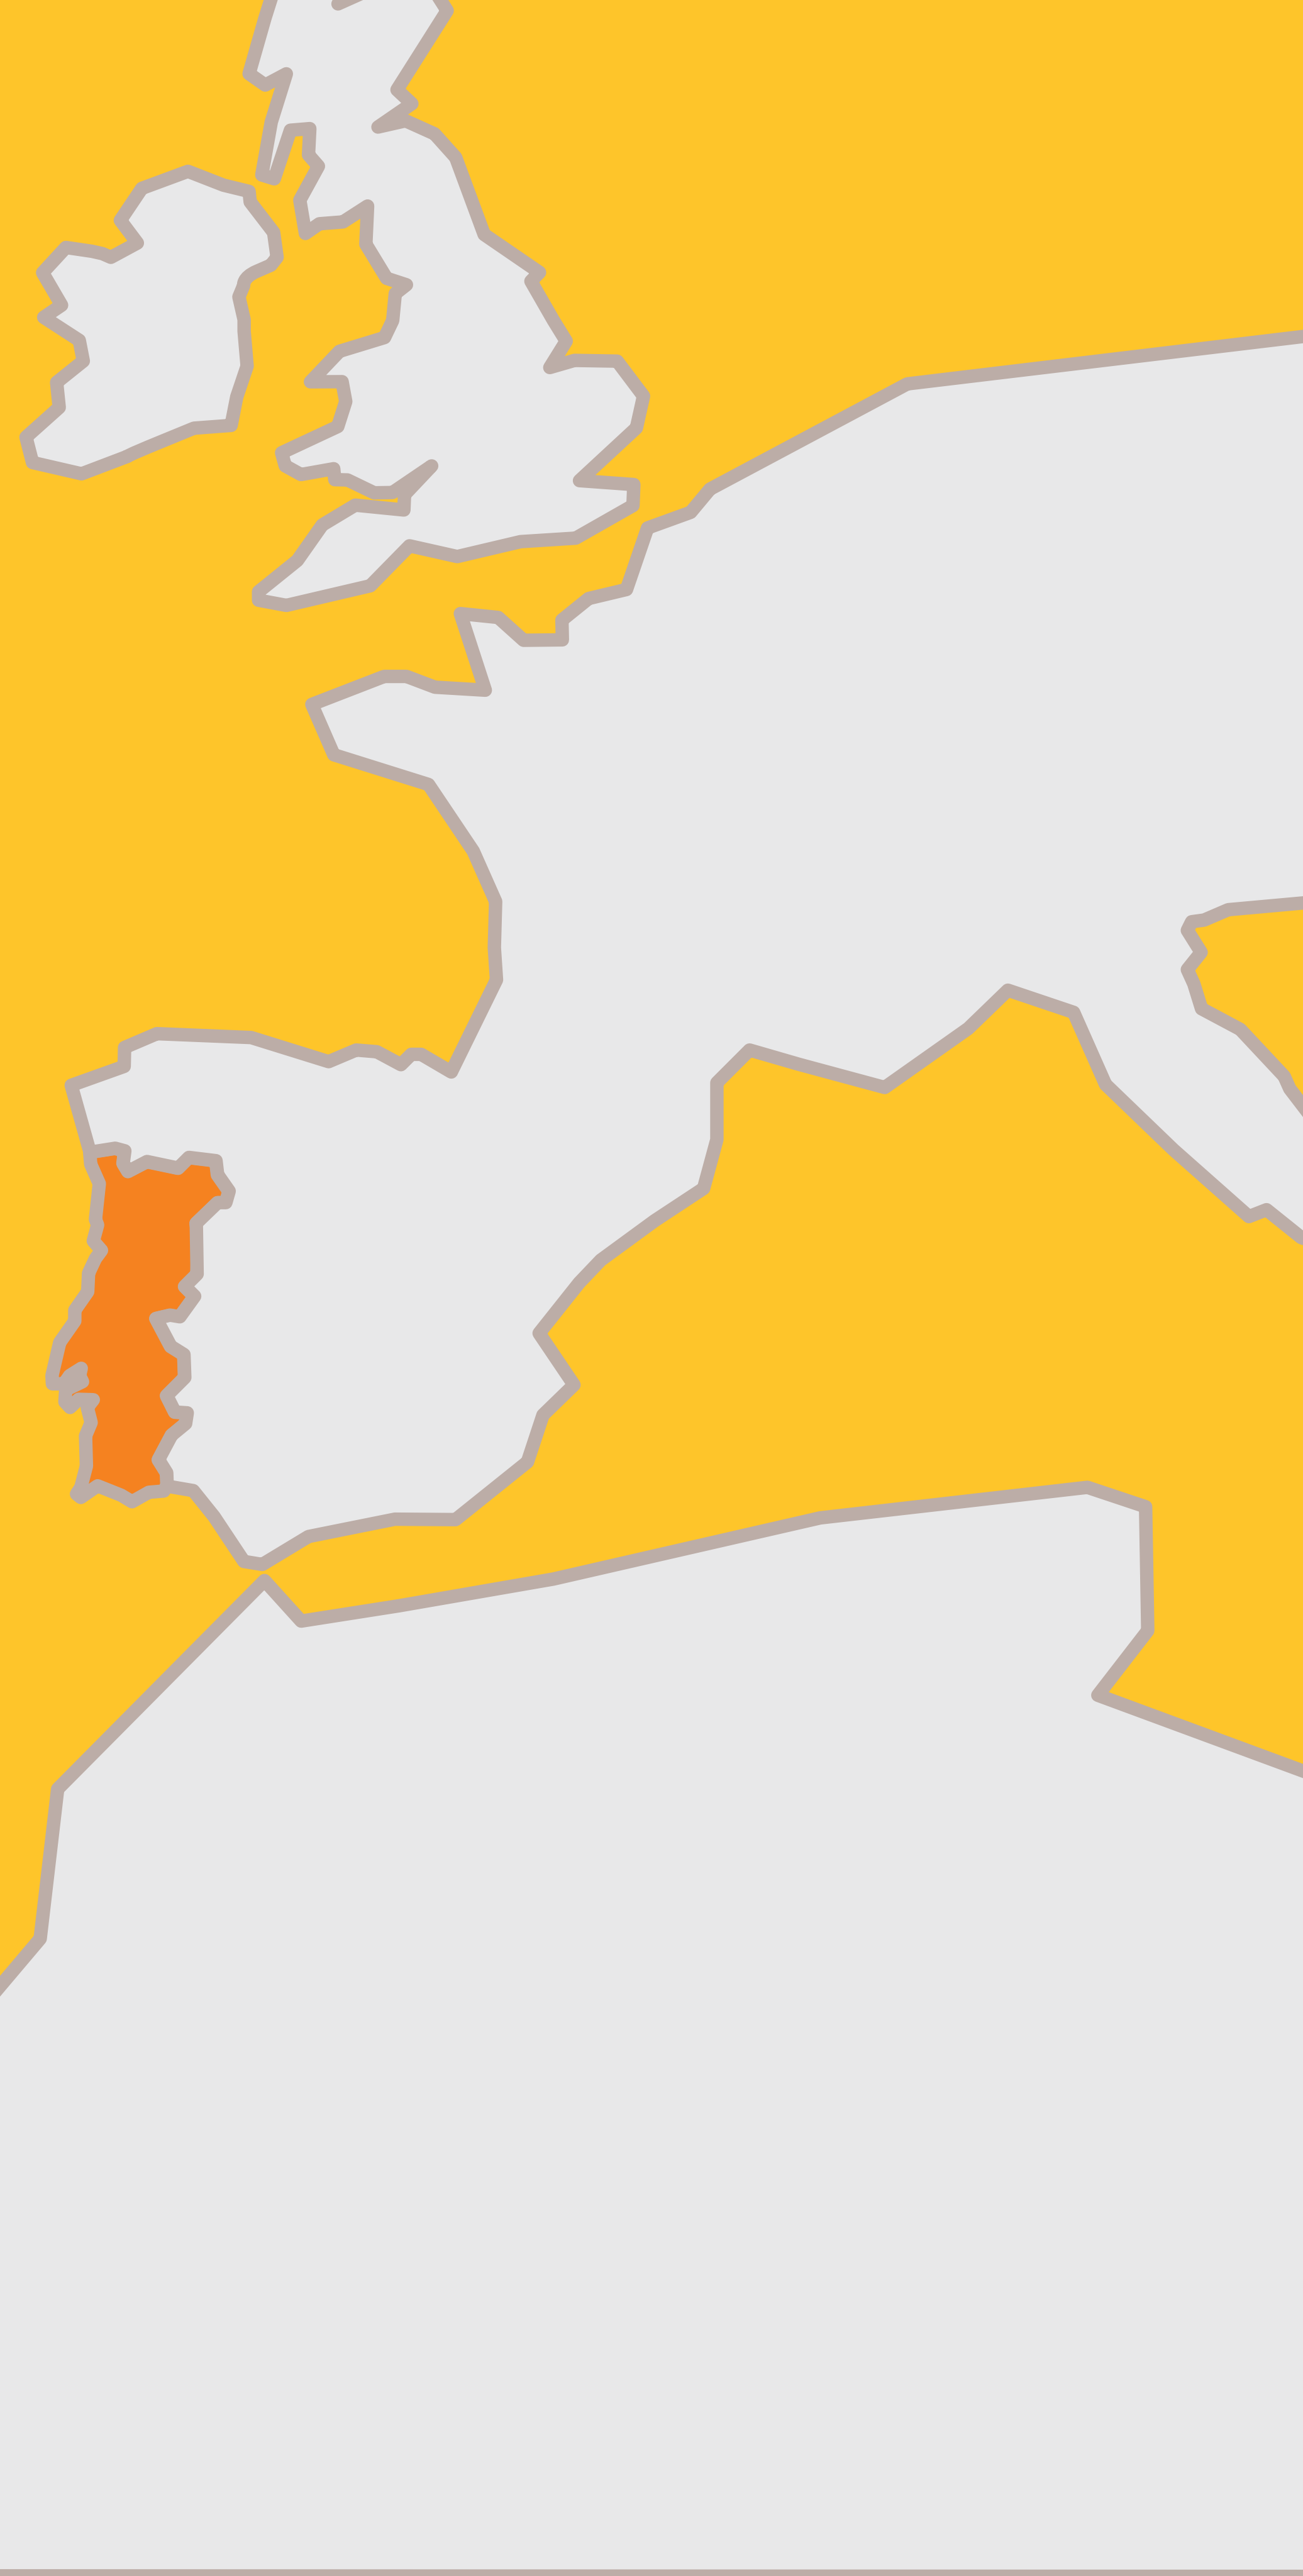

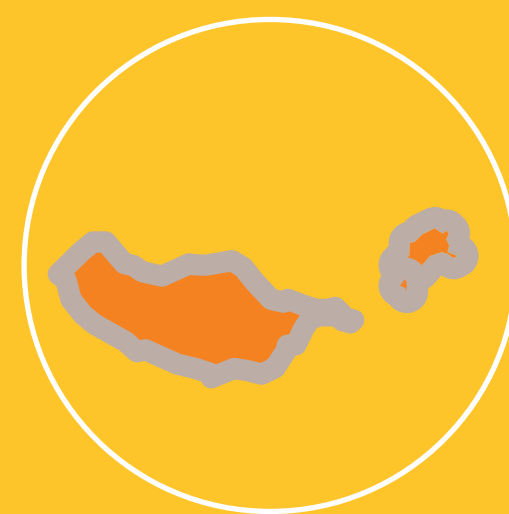

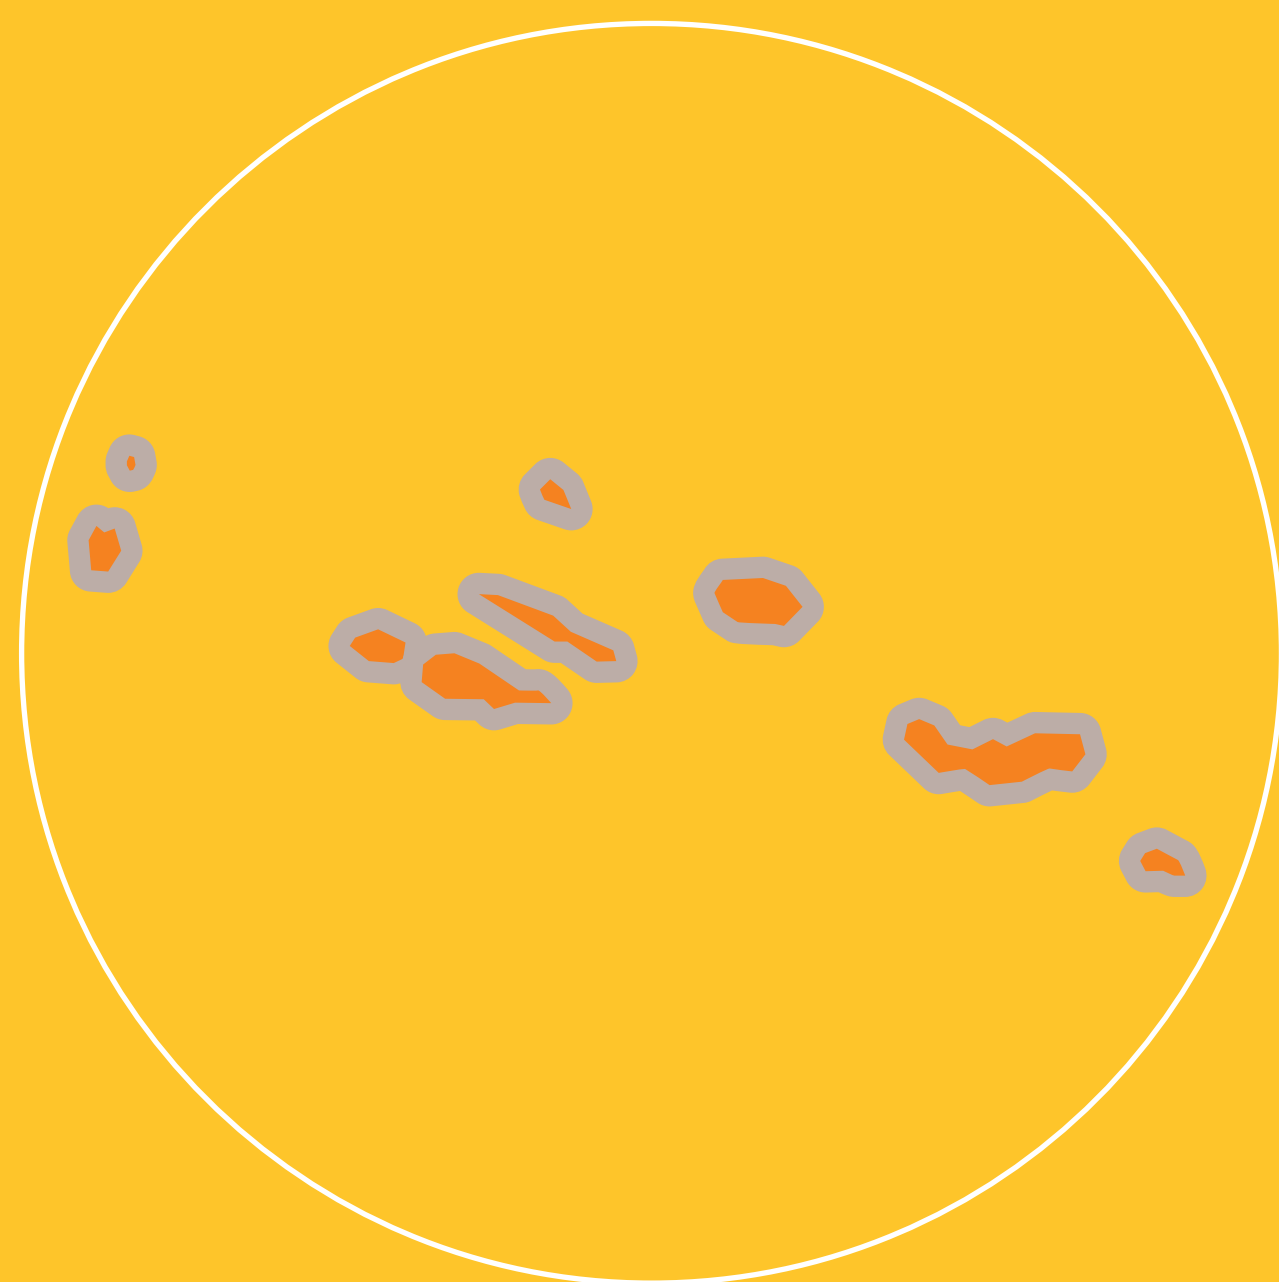

It is this passion that drives us to offer and share what we have the best of ... our landscapes, our stories and memories, that street we used to walk every day to school, where we met our friends, the music that gives us goose pimples, that Açorda we love eating so much, our sardines, our sweets, Our Portugal!

Bem Vindos!
This is... Portugal!

PORTO

“Character... my city has character... my Bulhão Market or Rua de Santa Catarina, the kids diving into the Douro river or my coffee at Café Majestic, the Aliados or getting lost at Lello searching for a new book and, oh... and what about that incredible S. João night when the whole city celebrates!? My Porto!”

DOURO VALLEY

“Getting dizzy while my dad drove around the vineyards, the party in our village after the harvest and the serenity of the Douro ... all the things that I can see with both my eyes and my heart”

An aerial photograph of the Douro Valley in Portugal. The landscape is characterized by steep, terraced hillsides covered in vineyards. The vines in the foreground are in autumn, showing vibrant shades of orange, red, and yellow. A wide, calm river flows through the middle of the valley. The sky is filled with large, dramatic clouds, with patches of blue visible. In the top right corner, there is a logo for 'DOURO VALLEY' with a small orange 'x' icon, and below it, the text 'The valley' in white on an orange rectangular background.

CENTRE OF PORTUGAL

“There are things I won’t ever find anywhere else but at home! The unique flavours of my mom’s homemade food using my adored Queijo da Serra, that freshness in the air only Guarda has, the warmth and hospitality of simple people always ready to help anyone visiting us, the height of the mountain (yes ... it is a mountain!) and my city covered with snow in Winter ... feeling at peace just by arriving there ... it’s home.”

LISBOA

“Lisbon is the smell of chestnuts in November, the Christmas lights, the sun reflecting on the Tagus river, the Pastéis de Belém or the sardines in Santo António, it is crossing open fields as a boy to go to the Benfica stadium, it is the Rossio train station taking me to Sintra ... Lisbon holds my memories, it is my present, my home ... my Lisbon!”

ALGARVE

“To me the Algarve is colour! It’s the perfect white of the almond blossoms in January, the lush red of the pomegranate trees in April, the warm shades of orange when the sun sets in August and the greenish tone of the sea after the short downpours in October”

MADEIRA

“On a beautiful Winter afternoon, I travelled to the Summer as I felt the warmth of the sun on my face, I dived in the deep blue of the Atlantic and imagined the conversations of that couple sitting at the table just in front of me, laughing and sipping their ponchas. On a real route-of-affections, amidst mesmerizing scenery, I embrace the blue and keep the people I meet in my heart, I take a deep breath and thank life for these delightful bits of happiness. Happiness is where I am, it's where I'm from... it's my Madeira!”

AZORES

“Life! Nature! I have the feeling that my islands have never been visited and I’m the only one who knows them and lives in them ... so pure, so unspoiled, so perfect! From the green of the lakes and fields, the black of the volcanos, the deep and unique blue of our ocean, the light blue of the sky, the white and pink from the flowers...yes, if there’s a rainbow leading to a treasure, it’s surely leading to the Azores!”

LISBON

Portugal's capital, Lisbon, is a city with more than 1,000 years of history. Built on 7 hills, embraced by the Tagus River and kissed by the Sun, Lisbon is a city of light, great historical and cultural heritage and one of Europe's most lively cities. ALGARVE

The Algarve, the southernmost region of the country, is an internationally renowned holiday destination which, slowly, is becoming more and more popular for corporate events. Year after year elected as the best European Golf Destination, with a wide variety of hotels, sandy beaches and breathtaking landscapes, and fabulous cuisine, the Algarve is definitely one of Portugal's banners for tourism.

MADEIRA ISLAND

Known as the Garden of the Atlantic since the 19th century, Madeira has been the destination of choice for many travellers including some very well-known people such as Winston Churchill or the Empress Sissi. With mild weather and fabulous flora, Madeira is the perfect destination for a holiday, one of the cruises' best destinations, or for an out-of-the-box incentive.

THE AZORES

Nine fantastic islands, all different and yet with a lush green common to all, the Azores is, today, one of Europe's most spoken-about destinations. Ideal for those who love nature, trekking or whale watching, the Azores surprises every visitor with its beautiful lakes, the city of Angra do Heroísmo (UNESCO World Heritage Site) or the world-famous gin at Peter's bar.
